The esteemed chairperson of the Farhatun Noor Welfare Foundation was born on January 1, 1947, in Noakhali, Bangladesh. From a young age, she showed a deep passion for education and literature, which led her to pursue higher studies in Bangla Literature at Dhaka University, where she completed her M.A. First Part.

In 1961, she embarked on a new journey in life through marriage and dedicated herself to raising a loving family. As a devoted mother, she gave birth to six children and temporarily paused her academic pursuits to focus on her family responsibilities.

Despite the challenges, her thirst for knowledge remained unquenched. She attempted to resume her M.A. in Bangla Literature, but due to circumstances, she could not complete her degree. However, she continued to grow personally and professionally by attending numerous training programs and actively engaging in community service.

Her commitment to humanitarian work led her to join the Lions Club, where she became a dedicated member, contributing to various social causes. She is also a life member of the Lions Hospital, reflecting her unwavering dedication to serving those in need.

She is comfortable with English, Bangla, Urdu, and Hindi, she possesses strong communication skills, allowing her to connect with diverse communities and extend her philanthropic efforts beyond borders.

Her passion for charity led her to become actively involved in numerous charitable organizations. She served as the Executive Director of Karu Nekatan for an impressive 23 years, playing a pivotal role in empowering individuals through skill development and community service.

She has obtained numerous certifications from Nari Uddag Kendra and Basic, specializing in various vocational skills, including boutique work, block printing, screen printing, cutting, knitting, flower making, puppet making, and more. She further enhanced her expertise by completing cooking training under Bangladesh Parjatan Kendro and acquiring skills in office and account management, Trainers to Trainers program, embroidery, diamond ceramic, beautician training, hair cutting, candle making, computer courses, and spoken English.

In addition to her extensive training, she is a committed member of the Lions Club and holds life membership at the Lions Hospital, reflecting her dedication to humanitarian service.

From a young age, She dreamed of serving the poor, distressed, and oppressed. To fulfill this mission, I established the Farhatun Noor Welfare Foundation, dedicating my life's savings to this noble cause.

Farhatun Noor Welfare Foundation is dedicated to empowering women, children, adolescents, and the elderly by providing capacity building, awareness, and basic needs for those deprived of family support.

Though her ambition is high, her financial resources are limited. She is working tirelessly to expand their programs in social welfare, skill development, and medical support. To achieve this, she seeks financial, social, and moral support from all who can contribute in any way.

Her ultimate goal is to uplift villagers and the general public through socio-economic and healthcare support. She humbly request prayers for her health and strength so she can continue serving humanity until her last breath.

As the chairperson of Farhatun Noor Welfare Foundation, she continues to inspire and lead with compassion, ensuring that the foundation upholds its mission of serving humanity and making a meaningful difference in the lives of many.
